

MAJOR SULLY DIES IN PETERSBURG

He Was Brilliant Soldier, Who Served With Johnston, Ewell and Hill.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Petersburg, Va., August 14.—Major Robert M. Sully died at his residence, No. 10 North Union Street, at 7:30 o'clock today.

Major Sully was born in Petersburg January 21, 1832. He received his education at Hall's School, Ellington, Conn. After leaving school he went with Major Lewis Armstrong on a government survey of the military road from Independence, Mo., to Santa Fe, N. M. He then returned to Alexandria, Va., where his mother was living, and at the age of twenty-five he joined the 10th Virginia Cavalry.

He afterwards served on the staff of General Joseph E. Johnston, then with General Ewell, with whom he fought the battle of the Wilderness, and then on the staff of General A. P. Hill until the latter's death in the lines near Petersburg.

Major Sully was engineer and designer of the fortifications on Chapin's farm and Drewry's Bluff, and fought in the following battles: Cross Keys, Winchester, Harper's Ferry, Port Republic, Seven Days, Fight Around Richmond, Fredericksburg, Spotsylvania, Cold Harbor, siege of Petersburg, Wilderness and Gettysburg. He was put in command of the counter-battery after the battle of the Crater. At the end of the war he was in command of Companies B and D, First Engineers, Seventeenth Virginia.

After the war Major Sully rebuilt the Manassas Gap Railroad, and was later connected with the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad. He subsequently went to live in Gordonsville, Va., where he was engaged in the construction of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, then with the Richmond and Norfolk Railroad, being stationed in Richmond. While still in the service of this road he removed to Greensboro, N. C.

Major Sully came to Petersburg in January, 1870, as general freight and passenger agent of the Atlantic Coast Line. He was later made superintendent of the line, which position he retained until his retirement a few years ago. Major Sully was a Virginian of the old school, loyal to his friends, the possessor of honor and of a wide and accurate information. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Miss Sully, and one son, Miss Virginia Sully, all of this city.

MRS. ASTOR HAS $3,000,000 BABY

Some financial footing as his half-brother, William Vincent Astor, William H. Force, father of Mrs. Astor, put a short and emphatic end to this report. "The report that there will be a contest of Mr. Astor's will," said he, "is all nonsense. I positively will not discuss the subject further than to say that all reports of a contest are nonsense."

Mrs. William H. Force and Miss Kathryn Force, mother and sister of Mrs. Astor, who was Madeline Talmadge Force, were present in an adjoining room when the Astor baby was ushered into the world. The baby is plump and beautifully formed, despite the terrible ordeal through which the young mother passed in the Titanic disaster.

The police on duty around the Astor mansion were compelled to call for help to hold back the crowds which jammed this part of Fifth Avenue. When he arrived, John Jacob Astor, sixth, found a $2000 baby waiting.

If it's a hat question, our straws will give the answer. All the good qualities and all less than cost. It's not a question now of expense, but expediency—we simply clean out all our summer head-wear at this time.

Vincent Astor and his mother, the divorced wife of John Jacob Astor, are at Carlsbad. Vincent Astor inherited the bulk of the estate.

WIN THEIR FIGHT FOR BATTLESHIP

Shipbuilding industry would otherwise suffer.

Practically all of the force of the Bourne railroad amendment, attached to the bill in the Senate, was retained by the conferees. It was rewritten to give the Interstate Commerce Commission the right to determine whether railroads should be allowed to hold water lines and to sanction such ownership when it was in the public interest.

The railroad section of the bill is definite in its terms and broad in its powers. It confers on the Interstate Commerce Commission. It prohibits railroads, after July 1, 1914, from owning or controlling competing water lines "operating through the Panama Canal or elsewhere," and gives to the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to determine whether the railroad and steamship lines are "competing carriers" within the meaning of the law.

Pension Law Doomed. Washington, August 14.—The Senate today yielded to the demands of the House for the abolition of the pension agencies throughout the United States and passed the $150,000,000 pension appropriation bill with a provision for the abolishment of the agencies January 31, 1913.

the league, had arrived, the rainstorm began, and the crowd dispersed. Some seventy-five people repaired to the First Market for shelter, and there Mr. Brophy joined them. There were demands that Governor Montague, who was to have made the address of the evening, speak after the rain ceased, but it was deemed best not to do so. Governor Montague thanked those present for their interest. In the meantime, scores of others were scattered in stores on Eighteenth Street, awaiting the end of the storm.

Captain Lamb spent yesterday in Hanover County, attending a picnic and looking after his fences. Friends of both candidates were exceedingly active last night. Many voters were seen, and it is probable that this means a somewhat larger vote to-day than the anticipated.

Disfranchisement Claimed. Statements given out by both sides yesterday in reply to rumors or to publications marked the closing day of the campaign. John A. Lamb said that thirty-five of the men who had been named as vice-presidents of the big Montague rally at the City Auditorium have since announced they would support Captain Lamb. He added that one of these men had called at his office yesterday morning with such a pledge.

Surgeon A. Powers, secretary of the Montague Club, when seen in relation to the statement of Mr. Lamb, said that he knew of no disfranchisement in the membership of the Montague Club, or of any of the vice-presidents of the club. The consent of all the vice-presidents of the Montague auditorium meeting was expressly obtained, and Mr. Powers said he had confidence in the character and integrity of these men, and that unless they notify him or some official of the club of their withdrawal, he will continue to have confidence in their ability and loyalty to Mr. Montague.

He also regards it as being very strange that no name of the thirty-five disgraced vice-presidents in given by Mr. Lamb, and unless these names are published Mr. Powers has no confidence in the statement.

Mr. Powers is in favor of the opinion that Hill Montague, a relative of Captain Lamb, has allowed his affection for his kinsman to mislead him as to the actual membership of the Lamb Club. Mr. Powers cites, for example, that it is quite singular that of a membership of 1,500, no banner meeting of Captain Lamb did not bring out an audience of more than 300, among which there were many Montague adherents.

Denies Campaign Fund Story. In a letter presented to to-day's Times-Dispatch, Captain Lamb made reply to a report that a large campaign fund had been brought into the district in his behalf. "Such a rumor," said the Congressman, "is simply a 'campaign falsehood,' started for the purpose of trying to injure my candidacy and help that of my opponent."

"There is not a scintilla of truth in the alleged rumors. No money has been sent to the Third Congressional District by any one to help me or to defeat my opponent. The object in circulating such false rumors is to influence and mislead the voters, and to prevent denial being made which would reach all the electorate before the day of the election. I have too much confidence in the people of the Third Congressional District to apply the A. P. R. Ryan report.

Mrs. F. E. Ryan reported this life at her residence, 1509 West Broad Street, Wednesday night, August 14, after a painful illness, but lasting illness. She leaves to mourn their loss her husband and three children, Roland, Thomas and Stewart, boys, and three brothers, Mr. Charles M. Landers, Mr. John W. Combs and Miss Grace Carter. Her funeral will take place from the First Baptist Church, Friday, August 15, 1912, at 4 o'clock. Father Kaup officiating, from the Episcopal Church.

Baby is Drowned in Bucket of Buttermilk. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Danville, Va., August 14.—The thirteen-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Booker Reynolds was drowned in a bucket of buttermilk this morning at her home at Calhoun. Mrs. Reynolds had just finished churning and emptied the milk, three gallons of it, into a vessel and placed it upon the floor. Leaving the child in the room, she went out and returned five minutes later to find her baby had fallen head-first into the bucket and was dead.
